FURther Details

- Generally has a calm demeanor, especially after he has been walked. Doesn't need long walks, but definitely benefits from getting out and about once a day to get his wiggles out. He is good on a leash/harness and only pulls when distracted by other dogs or animals.
- He is great with children (has been around a 5 & 6 yr old), although he isn't aware of how large his body is and the kids can get bumped around. Would need some specific training if he is to go to a family with small children, but he has the right disposition to be around kids.
- Has serious FOMO, so he likes to be around either people or other dogs. We currently have 2 other dogs (12 yrs old and 7 yrs old) so he enjoys their company, too!
- Has been crate trained – likes to be in his crate at night and is used to being put in the crate when people aren't home. He chews up beds, so he hasn't had one in his crate (yet). I think he will grow out of that, but chews things (not necessarily toys) when bored.
- Enjoys being outside and would benefit from a large yard where he can roam and patrol. Could be considered a small livestock guardian dog, but would need to be specifically trained for this job. Has been around chicken and ducks and seems more interested than aggressive towards them, so this could definitely be a possibility.
- He barks to alert that something is around (other people, other dogs, animals/bears, etc). Further training could benefit him when it is appropriate to bark. Does have experience with a bark collar, but beeping and vibrate mode only.
- Comes from Rocky Mountain Companion Dogs LLC with a lifetime breeder support with Shawna Davies, who will provide training, grooming, and any other needs for him and your family! More info here: <https://www.shawnasdoglife.com/>
